The image shows the interior of a traditional Turkmen yurt. The walls are covered in a dark red fabric with a prominent diamond-shaped lattice pattern. Several pieces of traditional Turkmen embroidery, known as 'samsak' or 'samsaklar', are hanging on the walls. These include a large diamond-shaped piece on the right, a smaller one in the center, and several rectangular ones. The ceiling is made of light-colored felt or canvas, with several small, ornate lanterns hanging from it. The floor is covered with a large, intricately patterned rug. In the center of the rug is a large, hexagonal medallion. The overall atmosphere is warm and traditional.
